Book V., Chapter 47.

Wilmer, B. C., Thursday, April 20, 1905.

$2.00 Per Year.

DISTRICT CROPPINGS

And Other Items of Interest in a General Way

Tomorrow is Good Friday.

Two Outcrop is on sale at A. R. Yates Drug Store, Wilmer.

Wonder how much it cost the ladies for dish-pans last Saturday.

Capt. Thierd left Windermere on Monday on a business trip to Cranbrook.

For Sale.—Several tons of prime Timothy Hay, baled, at $20 per ton. Apply to ALBERT H. MERRILL, Brisco.

Rev. Mr. Rayth will conduct services every Sunday evening in the Wilmer Presbyterian church until the arrival of Mr. Madill.

C. A. Blacklock arrived in Windermere with Capt. Armstrong from Golden on Monday and left on Tuesday's stage for Cranbrook.

Mrs. J. Lake left Athlmer last week for Golden to meet Percy Lake, who is coming from college at Calgary to spend the Easter holidays.

Another base ball match between the Benedicts and Bachelors is announced for next Saturday afternoon. The Papas have not quite decided yet whether they will give the youngsters another lesson or encourage them some more. A good game and lots of fun is assured.

Subscribers who want copies of The Outcrop's booklet giving a description of this valley will have to apply quickly as they are going fast. Paid up subscribers may have them free on application, the only condition being that they agree to send the booklet to distant friends.

Geo. Willard returned to Athlmer by Monday's stage after an absence of more than two years and his many friends are glad to welcome him back. Since leaving here he has traveled in many countries, going as far as New Zealand, but like so many others he is glad to return to this valley.

The Kootenay Central is a legitimate proposition. It was promoted to meet a need in the way of transportation in the Kootenay valley, and it is a matter of regret that the local house adjourned without doing anything to encourage prompt action in the commencement of work on this road.—Cranbrook Herald

Don't forget that next Monday is Easter Monday and that the "Hard-Time" dance takes place in the Hall at Athlmer that evening. It promises to be so very hard that everyone will have a very hard time to keep from enjoying it hard and the hardest of the hard people to please will think it hard to find any hard fault when the hard-time ball is over. Those who are so hard that they will not take in a hard time will think it hard to find a hard-word club hard enough to use real hard.

The Victoria Week, a society paper, is endeavoring to decide which class of the civil servants in that city is the more intelligent—the young Briton who wears bloomers, or the young Eastern Canadian who wears creased pants. In the interior we also use a man's intelligence by what he carries under his hat, but, of course, different localities have different standards of intelligence, and no fault can be found with the standard adopted in Victoria, so long as the "past" gauge of intelligence is not made general throughout the province.—The Greenwood Times.

Walker Tegar was in town last week and said he had all his grain seedling in a week previous.

Rob Winfield accidentally fell from his horse Tuesday evening, receiving a painful wrench to his knee.

Mr. Newton of Golden creek has been seriously ill since Saturday, but is now reported to be improving.

Divine service is held every Sunday evening in St. Peter's Church, Windermere, at 7:30 p.m. All are welcome.

The Windermere Rifle Association held their first practice of the season on Saturday afternoon, but the score is not to hand.

Jas. Brady, P.E.S., has surveyed the Moose and Moon mineral claims on Findlay creek and recorded the survey in lieu of assessment work for the year ending April 26.

A report comes from Fernie that all of the coal mines on the Coast without down on June 1st owing to the owners not wishing to recognize the eight hour law. The Coast folks may then have a chance to taste of the pleasant (?) sensational feelings the interior people have experienced occasionally.

Speaking of the proposal to inaugurate a provincial forest fire brigade Mr. M. Carlin is quoted by the Golden Star as saying: "I think it is a service that is very much needed. I believe the federal and local governments could co-operate with advantage in perfecting such a system. We would like very much to see the Provincial Government take the matter up. I think the Dominion and the Province could work very well together in this connection. For one thing I think the penalties for setting or causing fires should be heavier than they are."

At Salmon, in West Kootenay, Japs and Chinese have taken the places of white men in the Kootenay Shingle Mill Company's employ, the white men and their families thereby being cut off from earning a livelihood. It was only by the protection of the provincial police that trouble was averted, and so far the white men have not resorted to violence according to reports. While it is to be sincerely hoped the men will show no violence, unless something is done to relieve the situation what else can be expected? The company cannot expect white men in this country to stand for any such action no matter what trouble it has had with them, so let us, at least, hope that the trouble will be settled without any grave consequences. Let us hope that our great timber wealth will prove a resource that our own citizens will be benefited by employment and the opportunity of a livelihood, even though the wages are comparatively low already.

Mexican Silver on Gold Basis

On May 1st Mexico will go on a gold basis and the mint will be closed to the free exchange of silver from April 16th. President Diaz has issued a decree for the reform of the monetary system authorized by congress in December. The decree establishes the "peso," or silver dollar at a value of 50 cents gold, and the fractional unit of the Mexican currency is denoted by the dollar or "peso" of 75 cents gold. An important feature of the decree is a provision for a reserve exchange fund which at first will consist of 10,000,000 or 15,000,000 pesos may be increased. The original plan did not provide for the immediate establishment of this fund, but it is now deemed wise to start with one simultaneously with the beginning of the new monetary system.

Navigation Opens Today

Capt. Armstrong returned to Windermere from Golden on Monday and Tuesday went across the lake to get the steamer Ptarmigan in shape for the season's work. The dam at Athlmer has proved successful in raising the lake two feet and floating the steamer, and the Captain expected to have the Ptarmigan in ship-shape today, when he will bring down a boom of logs to the mouth of the river, remove the dam, turn the logs loose in the river and start on the first trip to Golden, which will be about ten days earlier than last year.

STILL HOPE FOR K. C. R.

Although the Provincial Legislature prorogued without introducing a railway policy there is yet some hope that the Kootenay Central Railway construction may start this year. It is stated that the C. P. R. meeting which was to have been held on the 10th inst. was postponed until May 1st and then a decision will be arrived at. The main reason for the belief that construction will start seems to be based on the following extracted from section 5 of the Dominion Act which grants the K.C.R. $3,200 per mile:

"All lines and bridges for the construction of which subsidies are granted, unless they are already commenced, shall be commenced within two years from the 1st day of August, 1903, and completed within a reasonable time, not exceeding four years from the said first day of August."

Numerous other reasons are advanced as to why the road may be started this year and some may be stronger than the foregoing, but there are some men in the district who unhesitatingly declare the road will be started this year, and every man hopes they are right.

RESPECT CONFIDENCE.

That every paper is not as fair with men whom they interview as The Outcrop appears evident. When here a few weeks ago Mr. S. S. Fowler was interviewed and said it depended upon railway construction whether the Paradise would put in reduction works or a smelter, but that it was not for publication as he did not want to raise the hopes of the people until his plans were completed. Since then the Nelson Tribune and News have published articles on the subject and The Outcrop is blamed for not giving the news first. All we have to say is that it is our principle to respect the confidence of every man we interview and always will. The following is from the News:

Experiments are being carried on in Denver, Col., with a view of ascertaining whether the installation of a lixiviating plant will solve the problem of the Paradise ore, near Windermere, in the event of the Kootenay Central Railroad not being built this season, which seems more than likely. The mine to date has shipped about 2000 tons of ore averaging about 60 ounces in silver and 60 per cent lead, or roughly a $45 ore. This was to meet development expenses. The property is situated about 14 miles up Toby creek. The Paradise is not shipping any of its second class ore, which runs about $18 to the ton.

A recent examination made by S. S. Fowler put a guess at the amount of ore in sight at 25,000 tons, but as the lead is very irregular, being in a contact zone rather than vein, Mr. Fowler does not pretend that his estimate is any more than an approximation. About a mile of development work has been done, one tunnel on the fourth level being 1500 feet, with a depth of 525 feet from the outcrop. Development is being continued, the fourth level being pushed, and as soon as the ore body is reached the various levels in the mine will be connected by upraises.

If there is anything in the report that the member for this riding, W.C. Wells, is to be the next Governor of Yukon Territory this district will be a great loser, and the Yukon an equally great gainer. Mr. Wells has accomplished great things for this riding and province and his departure would be indeed deeply regretted.

OUR ORE SHIPMENTS

The Paradise shipped from 1st April, 1901, to 31st Dec., 1904, 1908.2 tons gross weight. The gross value of the metals, without smelter deductions, being $89,800.74.

The last shipment from the Tecumseh was 42,330 pounds for which the smelter returns show that the gross value was $1,500.88, without the lead bounty.

Smelter Combine

A Tacoma dispatch says the details of the negotiations for the transfer of the Tacoma smelter to a syndicate represented by Bernard M. Baruch of New York have been completed by W. B. Rust, manager of the Tacoma smelter, and Mr. Baruch.

"Mr. Baruch has his auditor now making an examination of the books of the Selby works," said Mr. Rust. "It is expected that the Selby works will be taken over the latter part of this month."

"It will probably be 30 days before the Tacoma plant is taken over."

"The Everett smelter will probably be taken over about the same time, or early in May."

"The Everett plant belongs to the American Smelting & Refining Company. It is to put the plant into the new organization and take stock for it. The American company will be interested in the new syndicate operating coast smelters, but will not control the new company."

"All smelters will be operated as they have been. There will be no particular change in the general manner of conducting the business."

"While plans are not fully matured I think it is likely that they will organize a new holding company, which will hold stock of several concerns, but they will all run under the old name. As soon as we can get around to it we expect to build works in Tacoma to make sheet copper and copper wire. I will be general manager of all three smelters."

"The Selby plant will be run under the new organization with lead as a specialty."

"At the Everett plant we expect to do a large amount of smelting and the specialty will be arsenic."

Frank Oliver, editor of the Edmonton Bulletin, has been appointed to succeed Hon. Clifford Sifton as Minister of Interior. His appointment should be a popular one as he is an able statesman and an honorable gentleman in the full sense of the word. The Outcrop is very much pleased to see Mr. Oliver advance to this high position, as the editor of this paper was intimately acquainted with him years ago, having worked under him as manager and foreman of the Bulletin for several years and later published a paper as opposition to him; and with all our business connections we never found Frank Oliver anything but fair, straightforward and honorable. For these reasons we glory in Mr. Oliver's advancement, believing he is deserving and able to fill the position to the benefit of country.

S. E. KOOTENAY MINE NEWS

From Fort Steele Prospector.

R. Durant and Wm. Myers are engaged in sinking a new shaft, near Old Town on Perry creek, on a placer claim owned by Mr. Durant.

Wm. Thompson and Emil Banks have succeeded in reaching bedrock in their new shaft. It is reported that the bedrock is in gold, and that good pay is now being taken out.

The great showing of silver-lead ore in the St. Eugene mine continues to be the chief topic of conversation among mining men. Its production will earn for the owners this month $25,000, fully one-third of the Dominion lead bounty.

The Bull River group of iron mines has been developed to such an extent that enables its owners to crown grant 30 locations.

A considerable amount of work will be done on several properties on the east fork of Wild Horse creek this year.

Frank Tracy with a small working force has commenced development work on a group of copper claims near the Whitfield creek.

John P. Larsen is running a tunnel several hundred feet to reach an old channel on Wild Horse creek. The gravel coming out of the tunnel is rich enough to pay all expenses.

From present indications the Sullivan group of mines, near Kimberley, will soon develop into a producer of great value.

BASE BALL

BY ANCIENT BACH.

The Benedict-Bachelor match, which was won by the latter, was both exciting and interesting. Both teams played a game chuck full of ginger and the pitchers at times held the batters as if they were hypnotized and the fielders helped out the sence, although from start to finish the Bachelors proved themselves the heavy men with the stick and were successful in lambasting Atton's corkers and steamrollers for 21 runs, while the genial good-natured, big girls, F. C. Stockdale's delivery, with an imitation of Chesbro, celebrated spit-curve proved to be a salubrious mystifier and with Doc Williamson behind the bat as pal they were a cracked battery and several of the married men are using shoulder supports and Eileman embroycation for the strains and dislocations they received in missing the celebrated spit. The features of the game were the Benedicts first-basemen's base running, Geo. Evans' running catch in c. f. and Doc Williamson's foul-tip catches. Mr. W. S. Ruttan as umpire gave entire satisfaction.

W. F. EVANS,

Publisher and Proprietor.

WILMER, B.C., THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1905.

It is stated that the Columbia River Lumber Company has quite decided to employ 500 lumber men in this vicinity next season, and already are preparing their plans. This will insure a lively camp and gives our ranchers an opportunity to display their enterprise by planting large crops of all kinds.

Once more The Outcrop is its ownself again. After waiting more than two months for a "roller mould" to reach this Palace by awfully slow freight we got weary and borrowed a length of Mr. Starke's water-piping—and here we are full-size. Perhaps no printer ever before thought of using a rain-spout as a roller mould, but in the mountains printers have to fall in line with the rest of folks and do some tall rustling at times—our water-spout roller is a good one and we don't give a care now whether our new mould gets across the continent before the century wanes or not—such is life in the west.

The mines of the Windermere district have now reached that stage of development when railway communication is necessary to aid them in further development and we all hope that this necessity will be forthcoming in the very near future by the construction of the Kootenay Central. From no less an authority than Mr. S. S. Fowler, consulting engineer of the Paradise mine, we learn that he has estimated there are 25,000 tons of ore in the Paradise and that once a railroad is assured a tramway will be built to Pinehurst and a smelter erected. Thus the necessity of a railroad is seen, that the necessary coke, etc., may be got conveniently and cheaply. Other mines also are ready to install machinery, ship ore and carry on development on a large scale once the railway is assured. A railroad is all we need here to make this one of the most active mining camps in British Columbia.

A circular letter issued by the Carnegie Steel Company suggests the fear which dogs the steps of a great many of the world's workers nowadays. The cry everywhere is for young men. The churches have no use for old preachers and the schools want young teachers. Railway companies have a tacit rule that men who are over forty-five shall not be employed in their offices, and in the large warehouses and stores it is young men who are at the desks and behind counters. Everywhere it is the young men who are in evidence.

It is sometimes said that this is the young man's age. Perhaps it is because the pace is so swift that only the vigor of youth can keep in step for any length of time. Whatever be the reason a sort of "dead line" has been drawn. It is as if "No man over fifty need apply" were being placarded everywhere.

What has become of the men who a few years ago occupied good positions and in many instances drew large salaries no one seems to know. What is to become of the host traveling day by day reluctantly but surely in their footsteps toward the dread "dead line?" Society not only does not know—it does not care.

Social and economic conditions are such that it is hardly possible for the average man on a salary to save. He must dress well to retain his position; he must live in certain style to maintain his self-respect; he must educate his family and launch them on the sea of self-support; he must protect his family by carrying life insurance. By the time all these demands are met there is little or nothing left. The future, grim and terrible, becomes a ghost which haunts the man daily, nightly, almost hourly in load, as he approaches middle life. And a way to exorcise it he knows not.

The farmer and his wife are sometimes distressed by failure of crops and cornered markets which rob them of just returns for their labor, but they know nothing of the specters which dog the path of the employee. They work hard, but they call no man master. They do not live in the dread of dismissal. They have no fear of not being able to find work. And they are, as a rule, able to make fair provision for old age.

TIMBER IN RIVER BEDS.

Fortune Awaits the Inventor of a Method to Recover It.

"If some scheme could be devised," said a Stillwater (Minn.) man, by which the sunken logs which fill the beds of rivers and creeks in the logging sections of this country could only be recovered, immense fortunes would be made. Along the St. Croix waters it is estimated that logs enough are imbedded in the sand of river bottoms to keep mills running for years. Under present conditions the loss is total, for no successful method has ever been devised to effect this saving.

"Occasionally logs cut years ago are forced by the washings of floods from their sand beds and driven upon the shores, where the action of sun and wind dries them out sufficiently so that they will float down stream, but the percentage of logs recovered is small, and millions of dollars' worth of property is lost beyond recovery until some enterprising genius invents a machine or process to recover the timber.

"At Stillwater logs occasionally come to the sorting booms bearing marks in use half a century ago and when they appear the old lumbermen grow resentful of men who have been long forgotten, but who were important operators in the pioneer logging days of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"No possible estimate can be made of the amount of timber thus lost, but lumbermen estimate that the rivers of Wisconsin, in the value of the logs buried in their sands, have fortunes of millions of dollars if the logs could be recovered. Wisconsin has been one of the big pine states, and your Chippewa, Wisconsin, St. Croix and Menominee rivers and their tributaries contain fortunes in sunken timber.

"Strange as it may appear, the value of the timber is not lessened, even after it has been submerged for half or quarter of a century. Efforts have been occasionally made to recover sunken logs. At one time a company was organized at Stillwater to dredge streams and thus recover some of the timber, but the plan did not work with any great degree of success, this method being found too expensive. Some one will come along some day with a plan, and this immensely valuable product, now lost will be recovered."

APHORISMS.

Rest is the sweet sauce of labor.—Plutarch.

To read without reflecting is like eating without digesting.—Burke.

Better a little chiding than a great deal of heartbreak.—Shakespeare.

Repentance is the golden key that opens the palace of eternity.—Alfion.

Think twice before you speak or act once, and you will speak or act the more wisely for it.—Franklin.

There is no impossibility to him who stands prepared to conquer every hazard. The fearful are the falling.—S. J. Hale.

There never was a person who did anything worth doing that did not receive more than he gave.—H. W. Beecher.

Refinement creates beauty every-where. It is the greatness of the spectator that discovers anything like grossness in the object.—Hazlitt.

Beats.

The brain is an important organ, serving as it does to keep the head from collapsing. Almost all styles of doing the hair call for a head of some sort. Again, there is nothing like a head to set off a fine neck. Finally, we should feel rather foolish without our heads.

For a long time scientists were unable to discover why it is that the brain is divided into white and gray matter. It remained for a clever French savant to solve the difficulty.

"Quite likely," said he, "the loud colors had not yet come in when man was created."

Psychology deals with the organic aspect of thought. To psychology we owe the knowledge that cat's brain makes good soup.

Sir Colin Campbell's Commission.

When the Duke of Wellington was in India he "discovered" the soldier who afterward became Sir Colin Campbell. That dashing warrior was in the commissariat service and had volunteered for an assault on a hill fort. The duke saw a little round man run up a ladder and, receiving a pike thrust at the top, roll down like a ball to the bottom. He was, however, up again in an instant and, running up like a squirrel, was the first among the first in the place. The duke laughed, inquired about him and procured him a commission.

Whittier's Safe-guard.

When an overtimid visitor from the city once consented to the poet Whittier upon the insecurity that seemed inseparable from so many doors opening out from all sides of the large old country home, the master of the house strove gently to restore confidence by pleading that the doors were locked at night.

Not to Be Thought Of.

Mrs. Newlywed—Yes, Harry has only one fault, dear fellow! He will smoke cigarettes. Mrs. Oldgirl—Why don't you break him off it? Mrs. Newlywed—And leave me nothing to scold him about? No, indeed!

Laying Down the Law.

Lady (entertaining friend's little girl)—Do you take sugar, darling? The Darling—Yes, please. Lady—How many cakes? The Darling—Oh, about seven, and when I'm out to let I start with cake. Paunch.

TRAFFIC IN SLAVES.

The Way Sales are Conducted in the Marrakesh Market.

In his article on "The Slave Market at Marrakesh" in Harper's Magazine, R. L. Bensusan gives a vivid picture of this terrible traffic, which goes on approved by the Moroccan government. He describes the beginning of the sale as follows:

"The crowd at the entrance parts to the right and left to admit twelve grave men wearing white turbans and jellabias. They are the dealers, or auctioneers, and the sale is about to begin.

"Slowly and impressively the dealer advances in a line to the center of the slave market, almost up to the arcade where the wealthy buyers sit expectant. Then the head auctioneer lifts up his voice, and—oh, hideous mockery of it all—he prays.

"Now each dealer has his people sorted out, and the procession begins. Followed by his bargains, he marches round and round the market, and I understand why the dealer was laid before the procession commenced. Some of the slaves are absolutely free from emotion of any sort. They move round as stolidly as the blindfolded horses that work the water wheels in gardens beyond the town. Others feel their position.

"Twenty-one dollars—twenty-one!" cries the dealer at whose heels the one young and pretty woman was not found a buyer limps painfully. She is from the western Sudan, and her big eyes have the terror-stricken look that reminds me of a hare that was run down by the hounds a few yards from me on the marshes near my country home last winter.

"Why is the price so low?" I ask.

"She is sick," says the Moor coolly.

"She cannot work. Perhaps she will not live. Who will give more in such a case?"

THE BROKEN VIOLIN.

An Incident of the Childhood of the Master Ole Bull.

Ole Bull, the great violinist, was born with a genius for music. To him the swaying of bluebells, the wind and rain and waterfalls, the music of birds and bees—all these were the voices of nature, and he tried to reproduce them on his violin.

It is said that the musician's first violin was given him by an uncle when he was but four years old, and his delight at the present knew no bounds.

"My father wanted me to be a minister," said he in telling the story many years after, "and I thought I must do as he wished. But when I was eight years old he bought me a new violin and arranged to have me study under a teacher. For," he said, "a minister ought to know a little about music."

That night I could not sleep. I rose in the night to get a peep at the precious violin. It was so red, and the pretty pearl screws did smile at me so!

I plucked the strings just a little with my fingers, and it smiled at me more and more. I took up the bow and looked at it. It said to me it would be pleased to have me try it across the strings. So I did try it just a very, very little, and it did play so softly. I forgot that it was midday and every body asleep, and the next minute I felt my father's whip across my shoulders.

My little red violin dropped on the floor and was broken. I did weep very much for it, but it did no good. They did have a doctor to it the next day but it never recovered its health."

Wanted, a Library.

Many persons laughed heartily when they read the following advertisement in a recent issue of a German newspaper:

"Wanted—Some French books which a young girl may safely read and which will fit into a small bookcase. The height of each book must not exceed ten inches. The price is of no importance provided all the books have handsome covers and are of the same size."

Barber Presoin.

A lady who was an ardent votary of modern culture happened to sit at an evening party next to an eminent composer and leader of an orchestra. In the full expectation of eliciting from the maestro a particularly brilliant and intellectual pronouncement, she inquired, "How do you feel after conducting the Ninth Symphony?"

"Hungry," was the laconic reply.

Thivier Mother.

"She named her baby after all four of its rich uncles."

"What good will that do? None of them will feel complimented when they know the others have been so remembered."

"Oh, but she has trained the child to answer only to the name of the uncle who happens to be around."

Argument Was Useless.

"But," protested the loving wife, "before I was married I always had a new bouquet every time I wanted one."

"Yes," answered the brutal husband without looking up from his paper, "and I put fresh cheese in the mouse trap every night until I caught that mouse in the pantry."—Judge.

Parental Solicitude.

The Mother—Don't you think the baby had better go to kindergarten, dear? Father—Isn't he too young? The Mother—Yes. But he never sees either of us long enough to learn how to talk. And don't you think he ought to know how?

Round and Pleasant.

May—Last night was the happiest in my life. It brought me one round of pleasure. Fay—What do you consider "one round of pleasure"? May—An engagement ring.—Philadelphia Press.

THE TOURIST or Tenderfoot who wanders into Wilmer should always camp at the Hotel Wilmer.

Within its doors can be found beds that sleep the weary; dreamless sleep, drinks that calm the troubled soul, and food that no epicure could pass without sampling. If you want any thing more see

GEORGE CHAMBERLAIN, Proprietor.

Rev. Mr. E. St. G. Smyth will conduct divine service in Wilmer in the evening of the 21st Sunday of each month.

SOME PARENTHETICAL REMARKS

A well known Indiana man
One dark night last week,
Went to the cellar with a match
In search for a gas leak.
(He found it.)

John Welch by curiosity
(Despatches state) was gaoled;
He squinted in his old shotgun
To see if it was loaded.
(It was.)

A man in Macon stopped to watch
A patent cigar clipper;
He wondered if his finger was
Not quicker than the nipper.
(It wasn't.)

A Maine man read that human eyes
Of hypnotism were full;
He went to see if it would work
Upon an angry bull.
(It wouldn't.)

The Provincial Legislature has introduced and now a great "howl" is heard. Even that staunch supporter of the government and Premier McBride, the Victoria Colonist, has turned against the present administration and denounced it. Truly, B. C. needs a change of some kind and a thorough change, but it is much easier to criticize than it is to tell how to effect a change that will be beneficial to all concerned. From the session just closed one cannot judge anything. It has been wrangle from start to finish and the Opposition can claim no better standing than the Government in the eyes of the electors. Premier McBride, no doubt, has done everything he could to get in harmony with his followers and is now obliged to try the effect of time. The Conservatives now have had a chance to show what they can do for B. C. and may even have that chance for some time. Let us hope they will see their error and come together as one body and give us good government while they may. The Opposition have nothing to their credit from the session, and the Federalists, although they have been in evidence, have done more to harm their cause than they have done to assist it.

"Now, James," said the school teacher, "remember that the secret of good reading is to read exactly as you talk; stand up straight and try to read your lesson just as you would speak." "William, please do not take your kite for a few minutes?" James looked at it thoughtfully and then he exclaimed: "Here, hear, Bill, gimme dat kite o' yours for a minute, or I'll smash yer nose in for yer!" The ho added before the astonished teacher could interrupt, "That's the way I talk it."

"Sam Hiram," remarked a Windermere rancher to a Wilmer farmer, "have you ever heard of them horticultural experimenters who are trying to cross the milkweed and strawberries so's to have strawberries and cream? Or about some lunatics who are trying to cross lightning bugs and honey bees so they can work at night?" "Fehaw! That's nothing. Why at Golden they plant potatoes and onions in alternate rows and the onions make the eyes of the potatoes water so they don't need no irrigation."

The Outcrop will print you, on short notice and in any amount, shipping tags, billheads, statements, letterheads, order-blanks, business cards, envelopes, visiting cards, business cards, bills of fare, programs, posters, etc. Will meet any quality of paper.
